GRAMMAR SCHOOL ENDS BIRD CONTEST

The bird contest for grades III and IV was held at the Museum on Thursday afternoon, one hundred and sixteen competing for the prize, a two and a half dollar gold piece. The contestants were mainly pupils who had made an individual effort to know all the common birds, and who thought they had a good chance of winning. They therefore wrote with great interest, and doubtless gained much from the experience. The better knowledge of the bird life about us is the real prize gained by all.

The winner of the gold piece was Anice Busby from Miss Wilde's room, Grade III, Summer Street School. She wrote the names of the full number of 25 birds correctly. She was especially deserving of the award because of neatness and good writing as well as the fact that she could have named twice as many birds as well as those shown.

Honorable mention is made of the papers of the following: Ruth Parks, Ruby Somers, Clifford La Point, Julia Cross, Edwina Macomber, Harry Moffett, George Blodgett, Eleanor Wilkins, Blanche Cook, and Marcia Staples.

The bird contest for grades V and VI was held on Friday afternoon, 100 competing. The first prize was won by Donald Matson, who named every one of the 50 birds shown correctly. Honorable mention is made of the following, who did well: Christine Belsey, Vera Doyle, Margaret Ricker, Helen Porter, Eleanor Steele, Charlotte Moody, Phyllis Robinson, George Dinsmore, and Iola Hulbert.
